Description

A good oak tilt-top table dating from the late 18th Century. It has a circular planked top on a turned baluster, urn and reeded support with tripod splayed legs. It has been sympathetically restored and is very sturdy with a good level top. There are historic repairs and many signs of age and use but it is a good honest piece of country furniture with a rich patination. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions please ask. Free local delivery within 10 miles of Ashburton. London £45.
