Description

Always popular and highly collectible are these tiny nineteenth century little pressed brass photo frames. This one is in a circular form with a small piece of glass glazing the front to protect the picture inside, this little period picture comes with the frame. The folding easel stand to the back is in perfect working order. I haven't touched the finish; it is untouched with a good antique patina which only comes with age. The front could easily be given a quick polish to gleam should the new owner prefer. Excellent condition measuring 1 3/4" in diameter with a 7/8" aperture.
