Description

This is an early 20th century extending dining table, an 8 - 10 seater. In mahogany, a French country piece dating to circa 1920. Mellow tones in the wax polished finish to the aged mahogany. Some colour variation between the leaf extensions and the main top when pulled out as one would expect in a piece of this age. Visual interest in the top with a woven parquetry design. A pair of extension leaves withdraw easily from either end. Standing upon stout, baluster legs over turned bun feet. United by a blocked, 'H' stretcher, the ends decorated with carved rosette detail. A super table displaying marks and wear consistent with age. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
