Description

A very fine and elaborately carved George II giltwood frame with a later mirror plate (the plate made with some distressing to appear much older). . This was originally a floor standing screen and the decoration is identical to both sides. It dates from c. 1750. . This may originally have had mirror plate to both sides but now there is a mirror plate to one side only and it is designed to be wall hung. . The top rail is surmounted by a beautiful pair of finely detailed ho ho birds and the whole frame is wrapped with scrolling foliage and flowers around a swept concave inner border and with numerous fluid crestings in the manner of Thomas Chippendale. . An exemplary 18th century mirror of unusually fine quality and in excellent condition with few if any restorations and the original water gilding in good order throughout. . . Dimensions are: . 34 inches wide, 3 inches deep max and 52 inches high. . For metric please multiply by 2.5
