Description

This Oak desk is a really great size for working at. It is fantastic for a home desk, not too wide (50ins) but deep enough (34ins) to put your computer on and get some work done without having to shuffle papers about. On top of the great work space there are two pull out slides to give even more working area. It has been cleaned and rewaxed so is in good condition, only minor marking in the last 100 years or so, it has not been abused. We have fitted a new tooled leather in black so that it does not conflict with any colour scheme. The sides and even the back are all panelled and each one is boasting a raised moulding. The handles are all original. The bottom drawer on the right as you look at this desk is deep so it can fit in files. All in all a great desk from around 1900, (perhaps a touch earlier with the appealing rounded corners) in very tidy condition that is most usable, it will not break the bank at £725 either. The knee-hole will not crush your knees either at 24ins high and 20 1/2 wide
