Description

Framed oil on panel by Clement Chaîneux (1899 - 1991). The painting shows a winter landscape of a stream running through some trees. It is mounted in a more recent gilt frame with a canvas slip. Clement Chaîneux commenced his studies at the Academy of Beaux Arts in Liege in 1916 and was a student of Adrien de Witte and Auguste Donnay. He painted in an impressionist style. He won his first drawing prize at the age of 17 and for painting at 18. He was a talented artist of maturity, but not well known and exhibited mainly before 1940. Several of his canvases were lost in the war. He also spent much of his time as a restorer and decorator. The painting is inscribed on the rear and dated 1942. Dimensions - 49 x 39 cms
