Description

Stunning mid 19th.c. Gothic revival oak and marble top dressing table by the acclaimed cabinet makers Lamb of Manchester c.1870. Tall dressing mirror within a carved and inlaid frame, angle adjustable on turned and inlaid column supports. Over a beautiful 1¼" thick grey marble top with canted front corners and a moulded edge with three drawers below. With three drawers of graduated depth to the left hand pedestal and a cupboard to the right, with a good sized kneehole in between. Gothic revival inlaid detail across the front and retaining the original Gothic pattern brass handles. Fabulous quality, typical of this very high-end maker, the sides drawer linings and backboards are all in solid oak. Clearly stamped for Lamp on the top of the middle drawer front. Some scratches to the mirror which is original but could be easily changed if preferred. Otherwise excellent colour and condition, cleaned and waxed in our workshops. Remarkably we actually have a pair of these fabulous dressing tables. Dimensions: width 62", depth 25", height 71".
