Description

Super small size late 18th to early 19th century George III mahogany cylinder bureau. The bureau stands on square tapering legs with ebony stringing to the corners and ebony block feet to the bottoms with original brass castors. The Bureau has two full width drawers also with ebony string, the top one pulls out with the stunning burr yew-wood interior. The oval brass handles are contemporary period ones but are not original. The second drawer is all mahogany lined. Both have original locks. The bureau interior is stunningly beautiful. The base acts as the top of the drawer and slides back to gain access to the drawer beneath and has a flush adjustable leather insert reading stand. The interior has 6 small drawers, all veneered in the best burr yew-wood with dainty turned ebony knobs, the drawers are all mahogany lined. There are also four pigeon holes with shaped aprons above also in burr yew-wood. The desk is a lovely original mellow colour with good patination. One or two minor repairs required mainly ebony stringing and drawer runners. SIZE; 36" wide by 18" deep by 40" tall CIRCA; 1795 - 1810
