Description

Late C19th French Napoleon III period Empire style siena marble and ormolu clock garniture. Smart Empire-style clock garniture of 'siena brocatelle' ,or Convent Siena, figured yellow marble with ormolu mounts . The clock with a well-cast Empirical central spread eagle atop a thunderbolt mount. The side supports with flambeau finials. The enamel clock face with Roman numeral markings and engine-turned central panel . Fitted with an 8-day bell-striking movement . Raised upon a breakfront form rectangular plinth base . The whole garniture of architecturally inspired obelisk design . The pair of twin-branch candelabras with well-designed and cast foliate candle arms of organic floral inspiration. The whole garniture embellished with stylised classical anthemion ormolu bronze mounts . The pendulum with sun-mask cast detail .The rectangular bases each with chained mounts and raised on polished ormolu flat bases. In good original condition with no damage or losses. Will be serviced and be sold in working order . The surface of the mounts with some wear commensurate with age and a dark aged patination, with highlights.
