Description

A fine 17th century Spanish walnut arm chair with lovely colour and patination. The chair is of typical design with scrolled arms and carved acanthus decoration. The back and seat with original tooled leather with woven gold thread decoration and held in place by large gilded buttons most of which the gilding is now lost. The front legs are carved along with the high stretcher having fret-work and carving. The chair has had few old repairs and there is a small hole in the leather on the back, but otherwise is in remarkably good condition and very sturdy.
