Description

Interesting 19th century print of a Jockey by Felicien Rops (1833-1898). The print is mounted in an attractive frame and cream surround. Félicien Rops was a Belgian artist, known primarily as a printmaker in etching and aquatint. He is also noted for his drawings depicting erotic and Satanic themes. Rops is furthermore important for being a pioneer in Belgian comics. Rops was a notable figure in the artworld and as well as having a museum dedicated to his work in Belgium, he also has works in several other museums. There are several detailed biographies on the internet. Dimensions - Including frame - 44 cm x 34 cm
