Description

Circa 1900-1920 this finely detailed Edwardian brass lamp may once have been the base of an oil lamp. It is heavy and very well made with fine quality decorative brass work, especially on the base. The lamp measures 49cm in height in total to the tip of the lamp holder, or 44cm in height up to the top of the column and the base is approximately 22.5cm in diameter. It has been rewired using flex cable to UK specifications and postage and packing within the UK mainland only is included in the price.
