Description

A charming Edwardian period mahogany drum table of small proportions. Very well constructed in mahogany in the manner of Thomas Chippendale. The round top is surrounded by a crisply carved gadrooned border. It has 3 opening drawers and 3 "dummy" drawers. The top revolves freely around the base. The tripod base is in solid mahogany and is decorated with carved detailing. This lovely table would sit well in a number of different room scenarios within the modern home. It is offered for sale in excellent original condition with a good colour and patina. Cleaned and waxed in our workshops and now ready to go straight into the home.
