Description

Georgian Scottish mahogany rectangular occasional table with tripod base. The top section with deep cross grain mahogany freize, the top with triple reeded edge with rounded corners. The tripod base with nicely turned column with shaped swept legs. The table has no drawer but it finished the whole way round so can sit in the centre of a room which is very useful. The table is in pretty good condition except for an old repair to the top of one of the legs and a small old chip to the edge of the top on one side. The table is a nice colour with original patination. SIZE; 26 1/2" by 23" by 30" high CIRCA; 1820 - 1830
