Description

This inlaid corner cabinet is a little darker than is ideal. It is quite a good looking one in other respects, with the sun burst in the lower door and the string inlays up the sides and around the door. The top section is astrigal glazed as can be seen in the picture. Anyway it needs to go,, the first £110 can take it away or we can get it delivered for maybe £70/80 or perhaps a touch less to most parts of the country. It cost more than that so its very cheap. If it was going into my own house I would have it re French polished a little lighter in colour, or perhaps you might want to follow modern fashion and paint it. Both the top door and the bottom have an operational lock and we have the key.
