Description

Gilt Bronze Mantle Clock by P.H. Mourey 'Putto with Dog' c.1860 This is a very nice gilt bronze mantle clock by Phillipe H. Mourey (French 1840-1910) The clock depicts a winged putto with a bow and arrow with to the right of him a dog on a lead, the dog has a bow around it's neck and jumps up to the putto. Next to the putto lays a quiver with arrows. The gilt base what stands on large bun feet is decorated with strings of flowers. The white enameled dial has roman numerals and blued hands, a small nips next to the winding holes. The eight day movement is by Jappe Freres. A signature of P.H. Mourey is found at the back of the clock with the numbers 2 and 64, this is most probably the date of manufacture, February 1864. The eight day movement strikes on the half and full hour on a silvered bell. The clock has been restored a few years ago to is former glory.
