Description

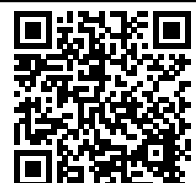

A very attractive pair of late 19th century Bohemian green glass vases. Decorated in the historismus style with exquisite fine enamelled decoration of knights on horseback amongst stunning stylised coiling trumpet vines in a rainbow of colours. Attributed to the Meyr's Neffe Glassworks, c.1890. A near identical piece can be found in the Corning Museum Of Glass, (item 2001.3.169* link below) as most likely from this manufactory and there are many other examples of pieces showing this very distinctive trumpet vine painting. * <https://www.cmog.org/artwork/covered-pitcher-knight-prancing-horse?image=2&search=collection%3A7e85abe45b6d65b83f5a88e7e11125c3&page=10> They measure 23.8cm (9 3/8") and 23.3cm (9 1/5") high and 9cm (3 1/2") wide. They weigh 977g together. Condition is excellent with no damage or restoration. The gilded bands running at points down the vases and at the rims and feet show some rubbing but there is minimal surface wear otherwise; the enamels are perfect.
