Description

A lovely small 19th century oak side table with a round planked top on square oak legs joined by X-frame crossed stretchers. It has been sympathetically restored and is very sturdy with a good level top and wonderful rich patina. There are some minor marks and knocks and signs of age and use but nothing detrimental. A lovely honest piece of country furniture. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions please ask.
