Description

A Superbly Carved Early 19th Century French Oak Panel The stunning panel is an architectural piece, it is not part of another piece of furniture, it may have been a wall panel or perhaps stood over a fireplace. At the centre of the top frieze there is the face of a winged angel or putti and below 2 large panels with a grinning face of the Green Man. This is a very well executed piece, the panel is in good condition with a shrinkage crack in the right hand panel, the quality of the carving and the patina is superb. The panel is 30" high and 53" long, 4" deep, it has a small ledge along the top. KW172 We only operate an online store and regrettably viewing in person is not an option.
