Description

Lovely mid 19th.c. Welsh oak and mahogany kitchen dresser probably originating from Anglesey, North Wales c.1850. Typical of the form it has a glazed top, with a fixed central door and three shelves over a cupboard base with three drawers in the waist. Ample storage space behind a pair of cupboard doors, the right-hand side allowing access to additional space behind the three false drawer fronts. Mahogany lippings to the top front and side edges of the base, with fielded mahogany door panels featuring floral carvings, mahogany drawer fronts, and panelled sides, all above a shaped apron to the base. Excellent colour and condition, cleaned and waxed in our workshops. Keys supplied. Dimensions: width 66", depth 21", height 85".
