Description

Attractive view of the port of Antwerp, Belgium by Andre Lynen (1888 - 1984) The oil on panel is signed by the artist and is mounted in a simple wooden gilt frame and slip. It dates from around 1940-1950. André-Victor Lynen (Antwerp , 4 December 1888 - Prince (Brussels), 29 July 1984) - Belgian school. . Lynen was a figurative painter with a modern touch. He remained much more traditional in terms of aesthetic views: a realism with impressionistic influences. He had a strong preference for the sea, dunes, beach and harbors, there are also Scheldt views, portraits, figures, interiors, still lifes and cityscapes . A number of his works were shown in Switzerland in 1917 in the "Exposition des peintres du front belge". In 1919 Lynen left for France. He lived in Versailles and also worked in Brittany: Cancale, Camaret, Concarneau as well as the Landes and on the South Coast. He became a member of the "Société du Salon d'Automne" in Paris and participated in the Salons. He exhibited regularly in Belgium between 1919 to 1967. In 1927 Lynen came back to live in Belgium, first in La Hulpe and then Brussels. He again participated in the many salons in his own country ...
