Description

A fine BRONZE SCULPTURE by the French artist Adrien Guadez entitled: "Le Devoir". The young man, dressed in a simple animal skin, holds a sword in his right hand whilst his left hand rests on a plough. (Le Devoir means: "The Duty") Signed within the bronze base with an additional applied plaque to the front. 18ins high.  Adrien Etienne GUADEZ was born in Lyon in 1845 and worked almost exclusively in bronze. He became known for his patriotic, sometimes monumental figures, whilst his later work seemed to be influenced by the Art Nouveau movement. He died in 1902.
