Description

A fabulous ceramic oriental garden seat modelled as an elephant, a stylized howdah forms the seat. It is glazed in varying tones of green with old ornamentation, the tusks are off white and it is raised on a molded and pierced plinth base. There are some minor signs of wear and some minor chips to the base (please see detailed photos) these are to be expected on an item that has probably been used outdoors. This very unusual and beautiful garden seat would be a superb decorative focal point wherever it was placed. c.1920 Width: 22" (56cm) Depth: 9" (23cm) Height: 21" (53.5cm)
