Description

A charming country oak side table with single drawer dating from the late 18th century. It stands on tapering legs joined by a H-stretcher. The drawer has its original brass handles and brass escutcheon. It is in good original condition with a beautiful rich patina. It is strong and sturdy and the drawer runs well. There are normal light signs of age and use and some historic splits and minor damages but it is a good honest little table. The table has been cleaned and given a light wax and is ready for use.
