Description

How fabulous is this ? can't be mistaken for any other era can it. This is an early 1930's Art Deco domed pendant vanity case by Richard Hudnut. The lid features a very distinctive Art Deco profile of two faces in red and black enamel on a chrome back ground with wavy lines to one side. Still has some caked powder inside. Originating from the US this compact is in great vintage condition and a true delight. Also has an attached lipstick holder, this often is missing. Richard Hudnut, the son of the proprietor of the shop, became the first American selling luxury perfume presentations, (though some of these were created in France) in an elegant shop which was directly influenced by the French and European perfumeries. Richard Hudnut's legacy is based on his creation of perfumery and cosmetics of notable quality, which were presented in distinctively decorated, and packaged containers. These beautiful and artful containers made Richa...
