Description

For your consideration is this Impressively large and beautiful Art Deco figure originating from Italy. These figures are not often found of this dimension, certainly we haven't had one for a few years now. She stands a whopping 20 inches tall, for your minds eye that's the average height of a coffee table! She's made from mixed bronze alloy, she's not pure bronze but not pure spelter either. She's been cold painted and lacquered. The detailing in the fan and dress are in great condition, so often found worn and faded. She rests on a marble base which is original to her and is without damage, including nibbles etc. I've taken a picture of her with some regular sized figures so you can get a good impressive of the pure enormity of this piece. A great figure to work as a focal point, perhaps on a sideboard or console table in a hallway. Her overall condition is above average with no damage to report or restoration.
