Description

A fantastic set of ten William IV mahogany dining chairs dating to circa 1830 and by J Proctor. Made from the best quality dense and finely figured mahogany these are heavier than standard chairs of this model, the waisted balloon back with a deep concave shaped toprail centred by a carved anthemion or palmette. The more desirable stuff-over type seats are covered in a woven burgundy coloured fabric edged with matching braid and are firmly filled, standing on turned and tulip carved front legs with substantial sabre shaped rear legs. Each stamped 'J Proctor' and '1063' to the underside. In good condition with a deep rich colour to the timber and the original finish, some dents and marks consistent with age and use. There is a James Proctor recorded as a cabinetmaker in Lancaster c.1818 and the Gillows archive lists a James Proctor listed as a journeyman in the 18th century, there is also a John Proctor recorded as a cabinetmaker in London c.1839. In terms of quality and style these chairs are produced for the firm of Gillows of Lancaster and London. 18in wide x 21.5in deep x 33.75in high (46cm x 54.5cm x 85.5cm) Seat height 19in (48cm) Ref: 0539 One man delive...
