Description

Antique silver fusee pocket watch from Fattorini & Sons of Bradford. The Fattorini family were well known in the watch trade. The company was established in 1827 by Antonio Fattorini and his four youngest sons subsequently ran the three branches in Skipton, Bradford and Harrogate. These three branches went on to become run independently of each other and they then became the future inheritance of the sons concerned. The watch has a fusee (chain driven) movement which is working nicely. A winding key is included but it is not original to the watch. The movement is signed Fattorini & Son, Bradford and it is all protected by an inner fitted cover. The watch measures 55mm diameter excluding the stem and the loop. The case is silver and there are hallmarks inside the two case backs for Chester 1872 with a maker's mark for the London case maker Henry Bamford of Clerkenwell. The case is in lovely condition for its age, just some rubbing to the engine turned detail on the back, just as you would expect in a watch that is 146 years old. The glass lens is in good condition. The signed dial with sunken centre and sunken subsidiary seconds dial is in very nice condition....
