Description

A superb extra large mid 19th century dining table with seven large mahogany leaves and a double extending mechanism for versatile flexibility. The five solid original mahogany leaves, which can be added or subtracted from the two dining table ends, all have good figuration and colour. The telescopic superstructure is made in solid oak and the dining table extends fully to accommodate sixteen to twenty diners. The well carved strong legs stand on the original brass castors. Set of 17 ladder back chairs with black leather seats also available.
