Description

Edwardian circular mahogany dining table This Edwardian circular mahogany dining table was made circa 1910. THE CHALKE VALLEY TABLE Here we have our exclusive Chalke Valley dining table. This table closes circular and then winds out on a telescopic action to take 3 leaf insertions. This superb table can be used closed or with any combination of the extra leaves, making this a very versatile piece. This Edwardian circular mahogany dining table winds out on a Joseph Fitter patent telescopic mechanism, you can use any combination of the leaves to make the table suit the number of guests. The top with superb figured mahogany that makes the table very eye-catching. The table has a fine carved gadrooned edge, and each leaf has a skirt that makes the table look balanced when the leaves are in place. This table has the exclusive Hingstons Antiques finish by our French polisher who uses the traditional methods when refinishing. The table is re-polished back to its former glory and then finally finished with a fine wax polish. The table stands on square tapering legs running down the legs to the spade feet and with the original china castors below. Imagine the conversations that wou...
