Description

This is an antique mule chest, an English, oak trunk dating to the early 18th century, circa 1700. Attractive English oak with good colour and an aged patina. Three chamfered field panel front over a pair of drawers. Two panel sides, panelled to the reverse, raised on squat stile feet. The field panel front displays well with grain interest. Stiles, rails and muntins with visible pegs for strength. Panel drawer fronts dressed with later, pierced brass back-plates and drop handles. Thick, planked lid with moulded edge detail, lifts on iron strap hinges. Iron lock behind later brass lock escutcheon, key absent. Great proportions providing voluminous storage. A super antique mule chest with solid joints and construction. Delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
