This well shaped antique walnut table could be used as a desk, dressing table, or just a side table. It's fine quality & dates to around the 1920's period. The top is burr walnut with cross banding & the same goes for the drawers which have the original brass drop handles. This table sits on solid walnut Queen Anne legs. It would work very well as a desk, because the kneehole height is as high as any large desk.
