Description

A nice example of an attractive 19th Century brass candlestick converted to an electric table lamp. The lamp has been fitted with a brass bayonet bulb holder and wired with brown braided cord. It is in good working order and has been PAT Tested for electrical safety. The lamp is in good condition and displays well. The brass has tarnished over time and has been only lightly cleaned and polished to retain its aged patina. There are some minor marks and small dings commensurate with age but nothing detrimental. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions please ask. Nationwide delivery £10.
