Description

This is an antique dumb waiter. An English, Victorian, mahogany, waterfall two tier table dating to the late 19th century, circa 1890. In select mahogany displaying deep, russet hues. Lustrous wax polished finish with a desirable aged patina. In good proportion and ideal to serve high tea or as a side table. The circular platforms display well, encircled with lip moulding. Raised on beautifully turned stems featuring helically reeded decoration. The larger, lower tier freely rotates for 360 degree access to cake. Standing upon a tripod of cabriole legs featuring floral relief carved toes. A fine example of an antique dumb waiter with solid joints and construction. Delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
