Description

A good regency rosewood pole screen with needlepoint embroidered panel. It is set on a round base with three lions paw feet and the screen has a pretty scalloped edge and glass covering the needlepoint. The screen is adjustable in height and can be turned around. It is in good condition for its age and displays very nicely. The rosewood has a lovely rich colour and it is generally strong and sturdy. There is a small old repair to a split in the wood around the screen itself (see photo) and some other minor signs of age and use but nothing detrimental. The embroidery itself is in good condition with no major losses or damages and the colours have remained bright and vibrant. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions please ask. Free local delivery within 10 miles of Ashburton. London £30.
