Description

A superb, large Heuer Autavia Chronograph GMT with date, ref-1163 Automatic. The Autavia was the first watch introduced under the leadership of Jack Heuer (the new CEO) in 1962, taking its name from 'Automotive' and 'Aviation'. The watch is now fully overhauled and the untouched dial is still very dark, near black (not faded to brown). The lume is good too. The movement is the fine Calibre 11, GMT, the watch will be supplied with the Red/Blue Nato strap shown and also a new Leather perforated sports strap similar to the original. Circa 1970, (This model was often sold with 'Leatherette' type strap which unfortunately perishes). It is worth mentioning that this watch is also supplied with the original distressed Heuer 1163 bezel insert. A rare watch.

Internal Ref: Autavia
