Description

A charming country oak side table dating from the 18th century. It has a planked overhanging top and stands on balluster turned legs with square stretchers. It has a single drawer with an engraved brass plate handle. It is in excellent condition with a lovely rich patina. It is strong and sturdy and the drawer opens well. There are many signs of age and use and there have been some repairs, restorations and alterations over its life but overall it displays very well. There has been a repair to a chip on one corner of the top and there are some old signs of woodworm, particularly on the bottoms of some of the stretchers, which has all been treated as a precaution and hasn't affected the table structurally or aesthetically. It has been cleaned and given a light wax and is ready for use. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions please ask.
