Description Large engraved late 19th century lidded glass goblet. The lid features a ball finial and is decorated with floral engraving above a lens and notch cut band. The bucket bowl is decorated with an array of engraving and cuts, including a rococo style panel and a beautifully engraved lady golfer. The hollow knopped stem and foot are decorated with cuts and engraving of a style matching the rest of the piece. Historical Relevance
Hand-blown around the time Issette Miller invented the very first golf handicapping system, which helped even the playing field for new and less experienced players.
