Description

-Welcome to Mersham Manor Antiques- A superb quality early Victorian walnut writing table, constructed by the renowned cabinet makers C. Hindley & Sons. (Late Miles & Edwards) C Hindley and Sons were based at 154 Oxford Street, London, from circa 1820-1830 and are recorded in the V&A archives in 1978. Henry Miles and John Edwards were based at 134 Oxford St. London from 1822 till 1844 and appeared in directories in 1823 and 1835-39. The firm had many prestigious patrons including the Empress of Russia. In 1844 Miles and Edwards were taken over by Charles Hindley and Sons. Several account books, journals, stock lists and letter books of Miles & Edwards survive, dating 1825-44. Both companies are listed in the Dictionary of English Furniture Makers 1660-1840 by the Furniture History Society. C.1850. A most handsome table of outstanding quality. The top is of rounded corner design, with an inset red, gold tooled leather writing surface, which is newly fitted, so completely unused. This is over an arrangement of two drawers, with the original turned bun handles. Each drawer retains the original lock. The opposing side of the desk has two decorative panels, so the table c...
