Description

Fine pair of large late 19th.c. portraits by the acclaimed Belgian artist Leon Herbo c.1889. Three quarter length portraits of a lady and gentleman very well painted in oil on canvas each measuring 36" x 52½". Posed symmetrically, both hold gloves in one hand whilst the other rests on a book or back of a chair. Note how the wood panelling continues across the background of both. Some interesting costume and jewellery detail, with cleverly realised beadwork to the front on the lady's gown. Clearly signed in the bottom left hand corner of each panel. The portrait of the lady is also dated 1889. Very good condition, presented unframed on the original stretchers. The portrait of the lady would appear to have been restored and relined. Dimensions: width 36", depth 1", height 52½".
