Description

A fine example of a Louis Style Mantle Clock with painted roman numerals on a enamelled face. The main case is an elaborate design of scrollwork manufactured in bronze with a gilt ormolu finish. The side panels of the clock are trimmed with a pieced design of fretworked brass sheeting behind which is a red silk lining material. The rear of the clock is accessible via a glass bevel cut opening inspection door. The movement is stamped G.V. which are the initials for top maker Gay Vicarino & Co of Paris. There is a swinging brass weighted pendulum inside the movement, which is an eight day striker on the half hour and hour, ringing a bell. The theme of the clock is a lovely cherub sitting on top playing an harp. The overall decorative case is in good condition.
