Description

A small and decorative mahogany cased clock, by Thos, (Thomas) Dickenson, of Boston. The 12" painted dial with a cheerful rustic scene in the arch, having subsidiary seconds dial and date aperture, with a four pillar eight day duration movement. The mahogany case has inlaid canted corners to the trunk, and fan and shell inlays to the hood, trunk door, and base, and is raised on elegant bracket feet. The shaped pagoda top is typical of clocks of the North East. Height 83", c. 1815.
