Description

A very fine mahogany LONGCASE CLOCK by Daniel Cornwell of Billericay (Essex) from the third quarter of the 18th century. Superb case; pagoda hood (with removable upper finial and pediment); long trunk door; double-plinth base. The 8-day five-pillar movement strikes hours on a bell, with original pendulum and brass-cased weights. Impressive dial, with engraved and silvered chapter-ring; cast spandrels; seconds dial and "Strike Silent" control in the arch. 94ins high (239cms) without the detachable upper pediment & finial. Daniel Cornwell Senior is recorded working in London circa 1750. He and his family moved to Billericay probably early in the 1760's where he continued his profession and was joined by his son, also Daniel.
