Description

Superb Art Deco modernist fireplace, totally authentic and dating to the 1930's. For those seeking something a little different that oozes glamour and originality to the Art Deco period then this piece maybe for you. These fires really don't come along very often and not many were made, certainly not for the mass market. Most likely originates from a commercial premises office as it's quite large and in above average condition showing little wear. A great statement and talking piece. The central panel is clear mirror with a central chrome frame which houses a two bar electric fire with two operating chrome switches beneath ( fire is working but not pat tested, we are selling as a decorative item only). The mantel (fireplace) is also clear mirror as is the base. The sides are curved and are made up from small oblong pieces of pink mirror glass, this is also applied to the edge if the base. For purely decorative purposes this fire would look amazing in a bathroom or bedroom. Condition is very good with only minor signs of age. The chrome isn't tarnished or pitted. The mirror isn't clouded, misted or foxed.
