Description

Eight day grandfather clock, c.1780-1820. Boxhall (Richard?) of Godalming. Well proportioned Oak case. 11.5" arched and engraved brass dial. Strike/silent, seconds and calendar mechanisms. Hourly chime. All hands, weights, pendulum, finials and hood glass are original. The clock has been in the same house and family for many years and is in the original unrestored condition. The movement is relatively clean and has run well over a three week test period. Notes: The brass work is unpolished. The trunk door lock is missing and the escutcheon is later. A small piece of the lh bracket foot is missing. An ideal project, not too far away from being a handsome country timepiece.
