Description

A fine early 19th century George III or Regency period WALL CLOCK in good condition. The mahogany case, has a slender moulded dial surround of good colour, and a curved access door to the base, with a cast brass bezel holding the convex glass in place. Dial: 12ins diameter. The 8-day fusee-driven movement with its original brass pendulum, retains its original painted convex dial in excellent undamaged condition which is signed: Samuel Gatward, of Huntingdon. Good blued steel hands. Guaranteed for at least 2 years. A Samuel Gatward is recorded working in Hoddesdon (Herts) circa 1750; this is likely to be by his son...(Huntingdon is about 50 miles North of Hoddesdon).
