A large example of an early 20th Century Machinists lamp from a factory or workshop. Unstamped, but all the fittings and construction points to it being manufactured by Dugdill. Four pivoting joints and a swivel joint in the top section. The cast metal base would of either been wall mounted or attached to a bench. It is now clamped to a wooden base which gives the lamp stability for adjusting. Original shade and distressed paint. Rewired and Pat Tested. Measurements below are maximum ones.
