Description

Large Victorian Mahogany Shop Display Cabinet, Museum, Collector's This is a very rare piece with curved glass at the front, the cabinet would have been set against the wall in a 19th century shop. The Mahogany Cabinet is divided into 3 sections by glass panels, it has a curved front surface (D shaped), with original mirrored backs in each section, giving plenty of reflected light. Each section has a upward lifting curved glass door and there is a metal support to hold the door open while access to the interior is required. The cabinet has been fully returned to show room perfection it was made by G. Treble & Son Hoxton famous for manufacturing only the very best quality shop cabinet pieces. The Cabinet is 22" high, 84" long and 16" deep.
