Description

A superb Regency mahogany serving table dating from the early 19th century. It stands on elegant Gillow's style tapering fluted legs and has three deep drawers, each with the original turned wooden knob. It has a raised mahogany gallery running around the sides and back of the table. It is in very good condition and is strong and sturdy. It has been repolished and has a wonderful rich patina. There are signs of age and use, some minor surface marks and some light knocks and chips around the legs and feet but nothing detrimental. There is a large ring shaped heat mark inside the middle drawer that looks like a pan has been rested inside it at some point (at least they put it inside the drawer and not on the top!). The drawer is still perfectly usable and it can obviously only be seen when the drawer is open. Overall the table displays beautifully and has been cleaned and lightly waxed and is ready for use.
