Description

A wonderful example of an early 20th century milliner's block. This tactile piece has a mechanism that can be adjusted from underneath which allows the two halves to move apart, thereby acting as a hat stretcher. It retains its original finish with a depth of colour and patination giving bundles of charm and character. A stunning work of art to grace any room in the house. English, c.1900/c.1920. ...
